Outsourcing collective training brings down the cost

Fresh learning methods help companies to stay focused on core competencies

For most organizations, less money spent on training is a negligible addition to the bottom line.

The cost of cost. Quality training is essential for the success of any organization. It is a great way to invest in the future. It is a great way to invest in the future. It is a great way to invest in the future.

CONTINUING EDUCATION

Usually a great deal of thought goes into the training process to ensure that it will fit the organization's needs. It will fit the organization's needs. It will fit the organization's needs.

Outsourcing training can be a cost-effective way to ensure that your employees are getting the most up-to-date training. It allows you to focus on your core competencies while leaving the training to experts. This can result in higher quality training at a lower cost. It also allows you to scale your training efforts as needed. This is a great way to ensure that your employees are always up-to-date on the latest industry trends and best practices. MARKET REPORT
The Future of Banking in the Middle East
By Professor Brett King

According to recent research conducted by Citigroup, the Middle East region will be the fastest in the world to see a 1% increase in the average annual growth rate. This is due to a combination of factors, including a strong economic recovery and a focus on innovation. The region is expected to see significant growth in the financial services sector, particularly in digital banking and fintech. This is a great opportunity for investors and businesses alike. It is a great opportunity for investors and businesses alike.

Did we learn the lesson from Enron: Who will be next?
By Prof. Geoffrey Barling
AAFM Fellow and Board Advisor
November 2008

The book, and film, "The Smart Guys in the Room" provides an overview of the Enron scandal. It details the complex financial engineering and the role of the Enron board of directors. The book is a must-read for anyone interested in corporate governance and financial fraud. It is a must-read for anyone interested in corporate governance and financial fraud.

GAFM® Charter and Certification – Post Nominals vs. a Training Certificate

- State Regulated or Gov. Lic. Profession such as CPA, MD, JD/Esq. These are most often a government regulated professions, with legal constraints in respect to use of the license, and a code of practice managed by senior industry peers (e.g. American Bar Association, American Medical Association, CPA/AICPA)
- Quasi Governmental & SRO Self-Regulatory Professional Designations such as GAFM® Board Certifications, Board Qualifications, CWM Chartered Wealth Manager®, CRA™, CFA™, CFP™, RFS™, MPM™ etc are Board of Standards issued Designations in finance and management, protected under trademark and trade secret law and member charter, but are independent self-regulatory bodies. Post-Nominals ('letters following your name') can only be used for such professional trademarks, or academic awards from a vendor-neutral and Independent Board of Standards. Protected use by Bar Associations.
- Other - Proprietary inter-company or Training Programs and certificates. These generally offer only 'statements of completion' or vendor-related certificates of attendance, but can not issue a post-nominal portable designation which is the defining mark of a professional credential or post-graduate mark/sanction.

Benefits from GAFM ® Certification

- Use of Board Certified Designations/Trademark after your name on your Business Card and on your Promotional Materials as long as you continue in Good Standing as a GAFM ® member

Prof. Dr. A. M. Smith, CWM ® (Fellow GAFM ®)

- Most GAFM ® certification courses also count toward Continuing Professional Education for many professions and also may count for CPA Requirements, Law Attorney License Requirements, and for Continuing Education.
- Improve Public Relations or the image of staff as ‘professionals’
- Staff opportunities to network with charter holders and members in GCC Countries and throughout the world
- Hi tech job tools and career packs
- Recognized post-nominal leading to academic credits
- Recognition by alliance partners, corporate sponsors and multiple government bodies
